MORE DRUGS, LESS HEALTH

“Conventional medicine” in America is entirely backward in its philosophy. It treats the effects, rather than the cause of dis-eases. This philosophy is ridiculous and dangerous. Our health care system has become a farce with many shortcomings, and gross corruption.

Conventional medicine does not attempt to cure disease, instead, it only masks or counteracts a given disease's symptoms. The only thing this kind of medicine ensures is that NO TRUE HEALING WILL HAPPEN, only a continuation of treatment, ad infinitum.

This is what you're paying out the nose for every time you fill a prescription or pay for health coverage out of your pocket or paycheck (or your taxes). What's really scary about this condition is how much is riding on it.

The medical establishment has no true incentive to heal. If they did, they'd cure themselves right out of jobs, funding, and power. If modern western medicine really WORKED, there'd be a need for less and less of it with every passing year...Instead we have ever more (and ever younger) doctors, ever more lawsuits and lawyers, ever more intricate and costly insurance coverage, ever more government programs, ever more regulation of medicine, ever more payments and fees and co-pays and expenses.

Think about it, without medicine that furthers the need for people to process every step of this insane system, a lot of people would be unemployed - and a lot of tax money lost, both in terms of sales taxes and corporate revenues.

Still think modern medicine wants to heal you?

Now here's the part where you get to have an eye-opening chuckle. One of my peers has put together a short animated film illustrating the conflicting interests, wrongheaded-ness, backwards philosophy, and far-reaching effects of the whole modern-day medical quagmire.

Use the link below to view this short animated film and gain a greater understanding of the scope and impact of drug-based "medicine" in America today.
